CASE STUDY 1:
Retail Design Consultants partners with HOMAG for quality, performance and productivity

CASE STUDIES: Building brand loyalty with confidence

The individual nature of the furniture RDC produces and the ever-decreasing lead times, led them to look at how they could improve their production processes. "There were several considerations that would affect our decision on which models to order. Our 14,000 sq. ft. facility is compact and so machine footprint was a significant factor, as was our desire to invest in machines that would 'grow' with our business. "After careful deliberation we settled on the HOMAG SAWTEQ B-130 and the EDGETEQ S-240 models. We had seen these machines in action at the HOMAG showroom in Castle Donington and also at exhibitions. The HOMAG brand and reputation alone gave us confidence in our decision, but we were also influenced by the service support, spare parts availability, and the peace of mind that come with partnering with the market leader", explains RDC managing director, David Donaghue.

"With the majority of our products being panel-based, the edge bander is a critical piece of kit for us. The quality of finish and performance of this HOMAG edge bander is first-class. When the panels come off the edge bander there is no need for any hand finishing, they are good to go to the next stage of production."
